

BIG IRISH MEETING TO AD SAN FRANCISCO

Dr. Douglas Hyde, the Foremost Celt Now Living, Will Preside.

FINE MILITARY REVIEW.

Volunteers to Parade at Ceremonies Next Saturday Night in Grand Central Palace.

Dr. Douglas Hyde, founder and President of the Gaelic League and the foremost Irishman alive today, has returned from his triumphal tour of the United States. On Saturday night next he will preside at a great mass-meeting in the Grand Central Palace, which has been called by the Irish Volunteers to aid the fund for the San Francisco sufferers.

Dr. Hyde will then review the Volunteers, and in his address to follow will give a graphic and inspiring picture of the Irish revival at home and in America. Among the organizations which will participate in the benefit will be the Clan-na-Gael, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Philo-Celtic Society, Gaelic League, Irish-American Athletic Club, United Irish-American Societies, United Irish League and the various Irish country organizations.

It has been the source of great delight to the many hundreds of Irish-Americans who have followed Dr. Hyde during his visit of the past five months to know that immediately on his return from Memphis and Baltimore his first thought was the generous one of aiding the stricken people of San Francisco. Dr. Hyde left San Francisco some two weeks before the earthquake. He had delivered public lectures in Portland, Ore., Seattle and Spokane, Wash., and Butte and Anaconda. He returned to Chicago, where a banquet was given him, and went thence to Memphis and thence to Baltimore, where he lectured Sunday evening.

Perhaps no man in his day and generation had received a more generous and courteous reception than Dr. Hyde received on the Pacific Coast. He was charmed with the people and with the type of Irishmen he met there. He succeeded there and throughout the country in a wonderful way in bringing together Irishmen of all creeds and denominations and classes.

No Creed Line Is Drawn.

Not only Catholic ecclesiasts and priests, but ministers of other denominations have been members of his committees and have united in making his meetings a success. They have done this because they have recognized that the Gaelic League, in whose behalf he has come to this country, is non-sectarian and non-political. The Gaelic League is neither Catholic nor Protestant.

"The one man on the Pacific Coast who did more, perhaps than all others to make my visit to the coast a success was the Rev. Peter C. Yorke, D. D., of Oakland, Cal.," said Dr. Hyde to an Evening World reporter before leaving for Philadelphia yesterday.

Dr. Hyde knew that Father Yorke was doing a giant's work in caring for the many poor and helpless persons who had left San Francisco and had flocked to Oakland. He said that he felt that he was making no reflection on others to feel that whatever he could contribute out of the Gaelic money raised in this country should be sent to Father Yorke, who knew hundreds of the poor and needy personally and who knew their wants and necessities and he felt that he was doing his best for these needy by giving in to the hands of this good priest the money which he at once determined to send them.

From the Funds of the League.

This money was generously contributed by Dr. Hyde out of the funds which he has been engaged in raising in this country for the pressing needs of the Gaelic League. He believed that the appalling nature of the disaster in San Francisco called for immediate assistance from every quarter, even if his work here on behalf of the Gaelic League is temporarily halted for that purpose.

Dr. Hyde has been in America since Nov. 15; he has traveled thousands of miles and has addressed more than 100,000 persons, and the $5,000 which he has given to the San Francisco fund represents literally the work of his own hands and the sweat of his brow. To use the Doctor's own impressive words, "My heart has been broken and the great pleasure of my visit to this great country has been spoiled by the appalling calamity that has overtaken the people of San Francisco. I feel I could have done more for them if I could have done more for them."

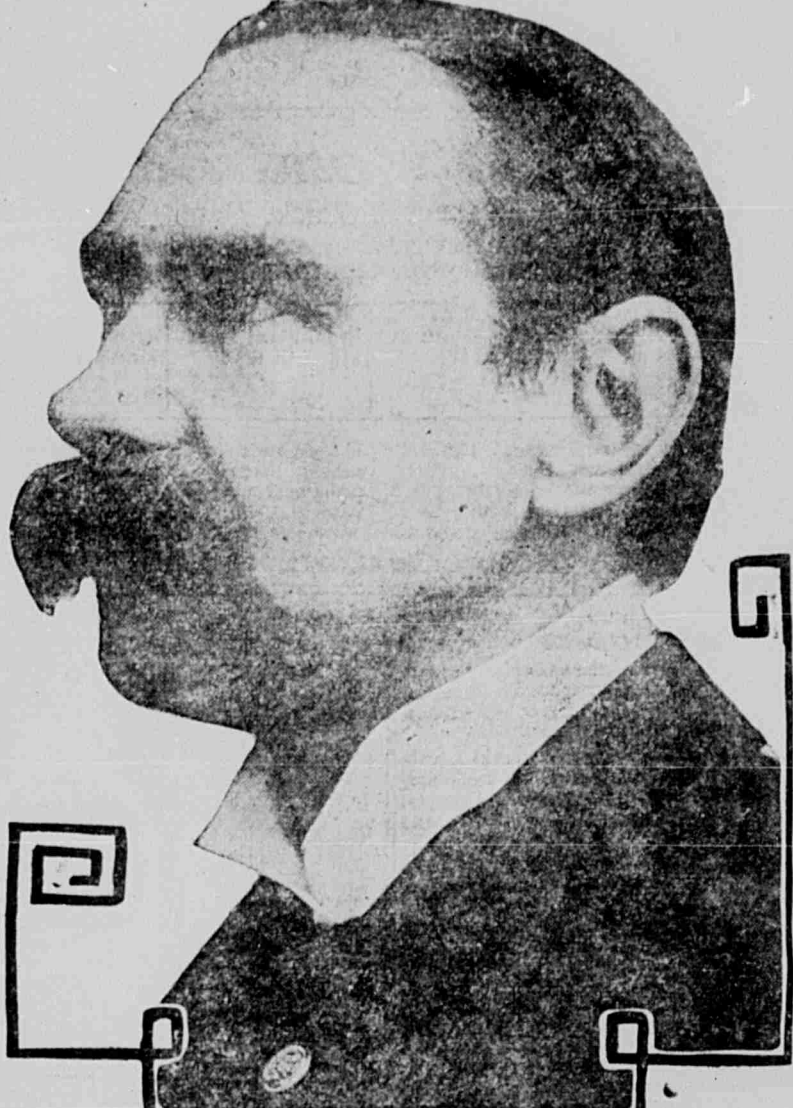

For many years Helwege had been living at a boarding house in West Nineteenth street. The old home was so lonely. Yesterday the landlady moved and the old man came down to the shop last night. It must have revived old and sad memories.

Charles, the oldest son, came to the shop this morning to see his father and to tell him that he was coming to live with his family. When he came to the rear room he saw the old fellow sitting in a chair, with his back to him. He called to him, but there was no answer. He hurried to his side and then he saw the old man's face. He was dead. The old man had died in his sleep. He had been suffering from a long illness, and he had been in the shop for many days. He had been in the shop for many days, and he had been in the shop for many days.

The making of "extra" money is very easy indeed. If you'll put it to make it. The way shrewd people succeed. Just take an "extra" minute. And read what World Wants say. They'll put you "next" to many deals. That handsome profits pay.

For you buy a Shop, Market, Hotel, etc., through World Wants. Opportunities. Ads. It's certain you can re-sell at a profit.

to the relief of their suffering; my second thought was to arrange for the telegraphing of the money. It went on Monday by telegraph."

Irishmen on Common Platform.

Dr. Hyde is by far the most interesting personality of Ireland today. He has blown the last flicker of dying ember into a full flame. The Gaelic tongue stands for the Gaelic literature and music and art and for the Gaelic spirit.

Scholar and man of action, he has got into his years of life and he is but at the prime—his achievement that lies between these poles. He has created the Gaelic League. Instead of the disintegrating force of politics, he has given the Irishmen of all grades and classes a common platform.

This conception of his, the Gaelic League, has done what even Father Mathew did not do. It has made the temperance societies have tried to do. It has made Ireland sober. The great brewing and distilling businesses are all so much the less prosperous. The Irish publicans will tell you to-day in Ireland that their business is going to the bad.

But the Gaelic League stands for more than this. It is doing a great work in reviving not only the Irish language and literature, but in preventing emigration. Into the dull village life the stagnation of which drives the people to foreign lands, since anything is better than what they know, the Gaelic League has brought the enthusiasm for which men live. And the man who has done this remains as he was when one could not have foreseen the greatness of his mission, entirely simple, human, modest, of all great reformers the last to carry a sense of his own importance.

When he was asked the practical extent of his revival, Dr. Hyde took up two volumes of a forthcoming work of his "The Religious Songs of Connect" and handed them to the representative of The Evening World. The beautiful Irish type, which looks very much like fine Greek type, was on one side of the page and the English prose on the other. He said that he was very much interested in the Gaelic League and that he was very much interested in the Gaelic League.

He said that he was very much interested in the Gaelic League and that he was very much interested in the Gaelic League.

MAGISTRATE SCORES TRACTION MONOPOLY

Says Corporation Pickpockets Unconsciously Aid Common Pickpockets.

Magistrate Breen in the Centre street court today expressed his opinion as to the opportunities furnished to pickpockets by the overcrowding of the surface and subway cars in the city.

The Magistrate's remarks were brought forth by the arraignment before him of George Monroe, an alleged pickpocket, who was arrested on a Broadway car last night in front of the Metropolitan Opera-house.

"Every morning since I have been sitting in this court," said the Magistrate, "the police have brought before me large numbers of professional pickpoets. The relay each morning was different. It looks as if this class of offenders is on the increase, at least in this country, and no wonder when you consider the opportunities afforded by the overcrowded conditions of our public cars. The knowledge of these conditions probably attracts hither these nimble gentlemen from all parts of the country to a fruitful field for their operations.

"You take the elevated, the surface or the subway systems and the same conditions exist. It is evident that the system that owns and controls the entire system fails to furnish sufficient trains or cars. Thus saves thousands of dollars.

"Some one has said that the dividends are in the street. Our citizens are practically cheated out of the rights they pay for. But the most serious of the wrongs of our unscrupulous crowd is the inviting opportunity it affords to pickpockets. Thus the corporation pickpockets are unconsciously aiding the common pickpockets.

Drummond Court-Martialled.

Alan Drummond has been court-martialled by the British government for firing on a Russian rock. This rock has long been a source of mystery. This mystery is at last cleared up by Robert Barr in his great novel, "A Rock in the Baltic," which begins in the Sunday World next Sunday.
